

For more than 75 years Pentel innovations have inspired the way we write, mark, design and draw in many areas of our everyday lives - at work, home or at leisure.

The story began when the company was formed in Tokyo in 1946, initially producing quality brush pens, crayons and oil pastels, aimed predominantly at the children's writing and drawing market. In the decades that followed, the product portfolio expanded, with memorable innovations that have shaped the world of modern writing instruments.

It's hard, for example to think of the ubiquitous felt tip pen without considering Sign Pen, the first acrylic-fibre tipped pen that caused such a sensation when it was launched in 1963 that it appeared in Time magazine and even made it into space on a Gemini mission. And Ball Pentel, the famous, green-barrelled rollerball, paved the way for an entirely new and eminently convenient form of smooth flowing writing.

Even today, there are some original Pentel products that still lead their field. The N50 marker is a perfect example of a high-performance Pentel product that millions of users continue to trust to provide the consistent results they require and expect for a range of demanding jobs.

Our best-selling writing instruments family is the EnerGel range, featuring the original quick-drying ink that resists smudging on hands and paper. And for sketching and drawing the Pentel mechanical pencil and refill lead collection leads the way with a wide range of sizes and exceptional features.

Our passion for creativity is exemplified by the Pentel Arts range, which offers an appealing collection of colourful and versatile products for artists and craft enthusiasts alike. As a Japanese company brush pens are in our DNA and our extensive range of products offers something for all levels of ability and a wide range of interests. That's why Pentel is #TheHomeOfTheBrushPen.

Our commitment to new ideas and innovations continues today with Hybrid DualMetallic and award-winning Mattehop gel pens – original products designed to delight and inspire.

Pentel has a company-wide total quality management programme, and our factories are registered to ISO standards.

We've been in the UK for more than five decades and from our office and on-site warehouse near Swindon we service the needs of customers throughout the UK and Ireland. We're proud to have a dedicated key accounts and territory team on hand to provide face-to-face help and advice for our customers, supported by our highly knowledgeable office-based customer services, finance, operations and marketing teams.

RECYCOLOGY

PENTEL AND THE ENVIRONMENT

SUSTAINABLE SOLUTIONS

PLASTIC-FREE PACKAGING

Our commitment to the three Rs – reduce, reuse, recycle – is encapsulated in one word: Recycology.

It's how we describe the efforts we make to use natural resources sensitively and responsibly throughout our business. It's also about how Pentel can help you choose products that have a reduced impact on the environment.

We offer you a wide range of writing instruments, filing products and display books made using a minimum of 50% recycled material. Plus, many more of our pens, and all of our pencils, are refillable.

ACTING RESPONSIBLY WITH RECYCOLOGY

Throughout our business we're working hard to help preserve and protect the environment, whether that's by using recycled plastic in our pens or cardboard packaging for retail environments.

This isn't something new for us. Our parent company in Tokyo has a dedicated environmental management framework based on its Environmental Principles programme that was established in the mid-1990s. This framework informs, develops and operates environmental management systems to make Pentel activities at factories and offices more effective in terms of sustainability and protection of the environment. Pentel's factories in Japan, Taiwan, and Thailand are all accredited to the environmental management standard ISO 14001.

In product development Pentel factories have a duty to use recycled materials wherever possible. And it's always been our goal to make products that last a long time or can be refilled, to reduce the need to throw away perfectly usable products.

What could be more environmentally responsible than a refillable pencil? Pentel have been designing and manufacturing mechanical pencils for more than 50 years. Each time you choose a Pentel mechanical pencil you're helping to reduce the requirement for thousands of trees that are chopped down every year to make traditional wood-case pencils.

RECYCOLOGY DISPLAY BOOKS AND PRESENTATION FILES

In 2006 Pentel launched a range of display books, presentation files and folders all made using a minimum of 50% recycled materials. Recycology filing products use fewer valuable virgin resources than non-recycled equivalents, without compromising quality. Ideal for projects, presentations, photos or hobbies, the Recycology range is perfect for office, school or home and helps you keep precious documents protected and organised.

RECYCOLOGY WRITING INSTRUMENTS

Where you see the Recycology logo next to a Pentel product this denotes that the item contains a minimum of 50% recycled material*. Where practical, our factories try to manufacture as many products as possible using recycled materials. We're proud to say that two-thirds of our quick-drying EnerGel range is classified under the Recycology umbrella, including the new EnerGel Eco 96% pen, which is made using a minimum of 96% post-consumer recycled material (and it's refillable).

Don't forget to refill your Pentel pen or mechanical pencil. Over 40% of the products in our entire UK range can be refilled, including even our Roll 'n' Glue and Brush Glue bottles.

So, there's really no need to throw away a perfectly reusable Pentel product.

DON'T BIN IT, REFILL IT

We want to encourage everyone who buys a refillable Pentel product to do just that. That's why we've developed our message, 'If You Love It Refill It' to help identify those items that can be used over and again. When you view our catalogue you'll see this logo next to certain products and you'll find the refill item codes and colours listed, to make it easy to select the right one. For more information on our refills see page 84.

100% RECYCLABLE CARDBOARD

We're all aware of the need to eradicate unnecessary single-use plastic in packaging and it's a priority for Pentel. Boxes for loose Pentel pens, markers and pencils have, for many years, been made using recycled board.

We've spent the last couple of years converting our blister card range to cardboard hanging packs and in the latest phase of this key project we've moved multipacks of most of our wallet sets from plastic to cardboard.

Where we continue to use plastic in packaging for best protection of products, the material is polypropylene, mostly with a minimum of 30% recycled content. The wallets allow multiple products to be kept together conveniently, like a pencil case, rather than throwing away the packaging immediately after purchase. When no longer required the empty wallets can be recycled.

*Percentage based on total weight of product excluding consumable elements.

ENERGEL

The technology that inspired others.

With its revolutionary low viscosity liquid gel ink, the EnerGel formula is quicker drying and smoother flowing than ordinary gel ink, giving a similar sensation to liquid ink. Because the ink dries super quickly it's appreciated by right and left-handed writers alike, as it reduces smudging on paper or hands.

Unlike liquid ink products, though, EnerGel doesn't need a regulator to control its flow – the ink is delivered directly from the reservoir or refill to the tip in one smooth transition. That's why the family of EnerGel products gives you the ultimate, yet affordable, writing experience. The majority of the EnerGel range is made from a minimum of 50% recycled material. And our EnerGel Eco 96% pens are made from 96% post-consumer recycled material - our highest percentage yet in a pen.

EnerGel is the original: Accept no compromise.

PLASTIC/FIBRE TIP PENS

Pentel developed the very first fibre tipped pen - the world famous Sign Pen - over 50 years ago. This product, along with others such as the Ultra Fine Pen, helped establish our reputation for performance and innovation. Half a century on, Sign Pen and Ultra Fine are still firm favourites in the studio, office, college and home, complemented by new members of the family such as Pointliner and, of course, our famous delta-nibbed fountain pen range.

Don't throw away your pen...Refill it!

When your pen has finally run out, don't bin it, refill it.
Doing so not only helps reduce waste, it also helps budgets go further.

Many Pentel products can be refilled, including all our mechanical pencils and the majority of our quick-drying EnerGel range. Refill leads and erasers are available for Pentel mechanical pencils, and their long-lasting quality helps reduce environmental impact.

So, there really is no need to throw away a perfectly reusable Pentel product. Look out for this logo or text in our catalogue or on hanging packs, to identify refillable Pentel products.
